MANY AGENCIES CO-OPERATE TO ASSIST NEEDY

Contribute Bundles of Yule Cheer Through The Red Cross

95 FAMILIES GET BASKETS OF FOOD

Toys, Renewed and Painted, To Be Given To Children

Salem citizens, through the Red Cross, have contributed a lot of Christmas cheer to needy families this year.

On Friday afternoon, Mrs. Myra B. Woodruff, executive secretary of the Red Cross chapter, will supervise the distribution of baskets of food to 95 families in the city and toys and games to children in the needy families.

Many Agencies Aid
The Salvation Army, church organizations, auxiliaries to civic and fraternal groups and private individuals have cooperated with the Red Cross in seeing that the poor families are not forgotten at Christmas time.

A few more cars are needed to aid in distributing the baskets and persons wishing to help may call the Red Cross headquarters, Joseph M. Kelley, George McArthur and R. C. Eckstein will take some of the gifts around.

The local Red Cross officials, who five years ago conceived the plan of collecting old toys, repairing them, and giving them to children who otherwise would receive none, succeeded in getting a whole roomful this year. As a result the kindergarten room at the Memorial building took on the aspect of a regular toyland this week.

They had been repaired where needed and given new paint. Visitors were unable to distinguish between some of the new and old ones. Included in the display of toys for the needy children were numerous wagons, tricycles and scooters.

Put Toys In Condition
Various persons aided in getting the toys in shape for Christmas.

Miss Martha Campbell of the Red Cross painted quite a few of them, while boys of the High school manual training classes reconditioned some of the wooden toys.

Girls in the Junior High school class, taught by Mrs. Lulu M. McCarthy, mended 16 dolls. Willis R. Hole aided in mending other toys.

There are toys for all ages and some of the older children will receive clothing.

One resident of Shanghai with a sardonic sense of humor sent friends back in United States this Christmas card depicting Santa's reindeer shying away from the bursting shells.

CHURCH PLANS CAROL SINGING

Midnight Candle-Light Service To Be Held By Lutherans

Carol singing will be one of the outstanding features of the Friday midnight candle-light Christmas service which will be held at the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church.

The service will start at 11:45 p. m. Rev. George D. Kistler, pastor, will be in charge. The Christmas scripture lesson and prayer will be led by Mrs. J. A. Fehr.

The complete program for the service follows:
Organ prelude by Miss Ruth Hoch, church organist; carol, "We Three Kings from Orient," by the men of the congregation; carol, "Silent Night, Holy Night," by the ladies of the congregation; vocal duet by Erna Pauline and Bessie Mieslun; Christmas scripture lesson and prayer by Mrs. J. A. Fehr.

Hymn, "Come Hither Ye Faithful" by the congregation; anthem, "Arise" by the choir; solo, "Christmas Morn," by Jeanette Hoch; carol, "Little Town of Bethlehem" by the congregation; anthem, "Sweetest Music Softly Stealing" by the choir; carol, "Hark Ye Herald Angels Sing" by the congregation.

Solo, "The Angel's Song" by Hilda Franke; anthem, "Calm on the Listener's Ear" by the choir; carol, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear" by the congregation; Christmas sermon, "Bethlehem's Babe," by Rev. George D. Kistler; anthem, "Hallelujah" by the choir; carol, "Joy to the World" by the congregation; benediction.

The service is open to the public and all visitors will be welcomed.

Yule Seal Campaign Is Nearing Close

As the Christmas seal campaign draws to a close the Columbiana county Christmas Seal committee emphasizes the two fold purpose of the campaign. First to carry on an educational program to inform the public on tuberculosis prevention, and second to raise funds to aid those who have already become infected with tuberculosis.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States, says that the great white plague could be completely eradicated if the proper preventive measures were put into practice throughout the United States. Christmas Seals help put these measures into practice in the county under the direction of the Columbiana County Public Health league.

The early danger signals or symptoms of tuberculosis are: too easily tired, loss of weight, indigestion, cough that hangs on, blood streaked sputum, and afternoon temperature. Doctors say that any or all of these symptoms indicate that an X-ray and a medical examination should be made to determine if tuberculosis is actually present. Treatment started in the early stages of the disease means a rapid recovery.

HOPES WANING FOR RELIEF BY FIRST OF YEAR

House Members go Home; Won't Work Until After Jan. 1

SENATE, LASHED BY GOVERNOR, ON JOB

Davey "Not Concerned" About Proposed Investigation

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—Hopes faded today for enactment by the Ohio legislature of a 1938 poor relief program before the end of this year.

Members of the house of representatives went home for the holidays, and Speaker Frank Dible said they would hold no working session until after Jan. 1.

The house members had approved and sent to the senate a 1938 relief program which would make available $12,000,000 for local governments and require them to put up an additional $3,250,000.

Senate at Work
The senate, itself and its president, lashed by Gov. Martin L. Davey in a statement accusing the majority of failing to do their duty, remained at work, devoting its attention to the relief question.

Even should the senate approve the relief program passed by the house, it undoubtedly would make changes which would require that the legislation go back to the house for concurrence in the amendments.

Apparently believing the house would remain in session, senate leaders decided to give primary committee consideration today to the house-approved relief bills.

Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, who had considered side-tracking relief until Feb. 1, agreed to cooperate with Sen. Keith Lawrence, Democratic floor leader, to complete 1938 relief legislation before the end of the year.

Lawrence declared the senate would be "derelict in its duty" if it did not pass a relief program by Jan. 1, and said that if action was not finished today he would request that the senate work next week.

Upsets Lawrence Plans
The house's action in going home seemed to have upset Lawrence's plans for setting up a 1938 relief program immediately.

Nevertheless, the senate passed two bills estimated to make approximately $2,500,000 available for the indigent for the remainder of this year and in 1938.

One bill, made ready for Governor Davey's signature, would reapp-

Prisoners Mustn't Take "Open House" Plans Literally

LISBON, Dec. 23.—Risking the displeasure of parents who have warned their young offspring regarding behavior and its connection with Santa Claus, the venerable saint will visit the prisoners in the county jail this year.

A Christmas tree, a chicken dinner and a Yuletide program will brighten the occasion for the county's charges in the 99-year-old jail. Each inmate also has been provided with a Christmas card to be mailed to members of their families.

Tree and cards were the gift of Deputy John Hermant.

Rev. Charles Bailey of the Friends church, Salem, together with several singers, will officiate at devotional Christmas eve and Christmas day at the request of Sheriff Harry Gooney. An "open house" is planned for Christmas afternoon between 2 and 4 p. m. This, however, is not to be taken literally by the prisoners.

Heading an investigation on charges of graft in the administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio are James Metzgerbaum, left, chief counsel and investigator, and State Senator J. Ralph Seidner, right, of Youngstown, chairman of the senate investigating committee. Their work will include checking finances and activities of all departments of the state government, provided expense money is voted. The action was taken by a coalition in the senate—voting 21 to 5 in favor—and including both Democrats and Republicans who seek information on the administration of Governor Davey who is an anti-New Deal Democrat.

CITY OFFICIALS TAKE ROASTING

It's All In Fun, Though, As Tolens Hold Biennial Dinner

City officials were orally roasted and roasted in the humorous part of city council's biennial dinner meeting Wednesday night in the Memorial building.

The dinner program was termed a grand success, with harmony reigning between outgoing and incoming councilmen, and Republicans and Democrats.

Roast turkey appeased the officials' healthy appetites. The "stuffin'" and the rest of the trimmings were not forgotten.

Solicitor Lozier Caplan, toastmaster for the occasion, introduced A. P. Morris, councilman-at-large, who presented a mythical, but interesting account of a trip through "Salem, Ohio, picturesque, historic and happy little city located in the eastern part of the state."

Taking advantage of his make-believe wanderings, Morris poked fun at the ideals and characteristics of the city's officials, including Mayor George Harroff.

The city's three newly-elected councilmen, Charles Renkenberger, Fred (Ike) Koeneich and Fred Smith, gave short talks as did Paul (Judy) Myers, one of the retiring members.

Changes in administrative policies of past and present city councils were explained by Ralph W. Hawley.

George Koontz, clerk of the board of education, and a former president of city council, spoke briefly.

Christmas Day Has Unusual Meaning For Lisbon Couple

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Jackson to Observe 60th Anniversary

Christmas day will be a double celebration day for Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Jackson of Lisbon, who will observe their 60th wedding anniversary at their home.

Miss Kitty F. Brown, daughter of George Brown of Hanoverton, a carpenter, was married Dec. 25, 1877, to D. H. Jackson, son of Dr. James Jackson of Hanoverton.

The couple have four children, five grandchildren and five great grandchildren who will help them celebrate the anniversary. Mr. Jackson is an uncle and Mrs. Jackson is an aunt of Harry Jackson of West State st. The unusual relationship was effected by the marriage of brothers, Harry Jackson's father and D. H. Jackson, to sisters, Harry's mother and Mrs. D. H. Jackson.

Mr. Jackson, now 83, was formerly a harness maker in Hanoverton. He went to Youngstown to become a fireman on the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, later going to New Galilee, Pa. as an engineer on the Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western railroad, when that line was under construction.

Mr. Jackson was engineer on the first train that ran over Elkon viaduct. He entered the U. S. Railway mail service on the Erie road from Lisbon to Cleveland. Since his retirement from the service he and Mrs. Jackson have resided in Lisbon. Mrs. Jackson is 80 years old.

JAPAN SETS UP NANKING RULE

New Autonomous Government Replaces Chinese Regime

(By Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, Dec. 23.—Japanese officials today announced the formation of a new autonomous government at Nanking, presumably replacing the Chinese regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek which fled from the former capital a month ago.

The Japanese army announced the capture of Nanking Dec. 13, and Japan's highest army and navy commanders in this area made a triumphal entry four days later.

Guard Against Counter Attack
Recent Japanese military operations on an arc west and north of Nanking have been described as designed to prevent any Chinese counter attack which would upset Japanese plans for a new provisional regime at Nanking.

Ten days ago, a provisional government of China was proclaimed under Japanese auspices at Peiping, renamed Peking. It aspired to be the government of all China and raised the five-barred flag of the Peking regimes which ruled China before the nationalist revolution of 1926-28. How the Peking and Nanking regimes are to be reconciled has not been made clear.

(From Nanking various departments of the Chinese government fled late in November to Hankow, Changsha and Chungking, the last-named nearly 1,500 miles up the Yangtze river.)

A Japanese army spokesman predicted the early capture of Hangzhou, historic capital of Chekiang province, southwest of Shanghai, and Japanese authorities warned foreigners to evacuate the city.

Resistance Futile
The spokesman said the Japanese command "has the impression the Chinese believe resistance (in the Hangchow area) is futile."

It was feared evacuation of Americans and other foreigners from Hangchow, for centuries one of China's most famous beauty spots and religious centers, would be difficult. Booms have been placed across the shallow Chien-tang river, its outlet to the sea, and the railway to Ningpo, the nearest seaport, has been heavily bombed by Japanese planes.

Inquiry Seen As One of 1938 Session's Most Important

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—Officials arranging for the senate's unemployment investigation beginning Jan. 4 indicated today it would develop into a broad analysis of the extent of the business recession.

Governmental and industrial leaders will be called, they said, to testify on present industrial activity and prospects for the next few months.

Significant Event
Some informed persons forecast that the inquiry would be one of the most significant events of the 1938 congressional session.

It probably will provide the background, they said, for the dominant issue of the session—government expenditures and budget balancing.

Furthermore, the inquiry will constitute the first attempt by congress to study the relief problem for itself and devise a program of its own, distinct from the recommendations of President Roosevelt.

This was the primary purpose of the inquiry when it was conceived more than a year ago by Senator Hatch (D-NM). When the senate ordered the investigation, the senate economy bloc seized upon it as a vehicle for cutting down expenditures.

The recent industrial recession, however, has changed the nature of the inquiry. Even some of those most determined to economize have come to the conclusion that greater relief spending temporarily may be necessary.

Seek Facts First
Committee officials said the first week of the inquiry would be devoted to finding out the facts about the recession and its effect on unemployment. The first witness will be John D. Buegers, director of the unemployment census.

BREAD AND BRITCHES

A catch phrase—bread and britches taxes—is being used by interests opposed to processing taxes on wheat and cotton products to call attention to their cause.

The phrase is easy to remember and packs a wallop. This is important. Concealed taxes, like processing taxes, have become a major evil of the national taxing system.

Politicians have been tempted to employ them with increasing frequency because consumers didn't seem to mind. In reality, it was because consumers weren't generally aware of how large a bite was being taken out of their dollars by hidden taxes.

A few more catch phrases like "bread and britches taxes" to describe what is going on in words consumers can understand, and the concealed tax racket will have passed the zenith of its productivity.

PRESSURE

Gov. Davey's plan to pay unemployment insurance benefits before premiums have been collected for two years is a study in pressure.

The governor got the idea in the first place because it seemed to fit in with a plan to pay maximum relief at minimum expense to the state—to be as generous as possible as cheaply as possible. No sooner had he announced it than rumbles of dissent came from Washington.

They came from appointive, not elective, officials—members of the social security board, interested chiefly in getting a complicated law off to a good administrative start, and from lawyers in the department of justice.

It looked as though the federal government weren't so keen about human needs as Gov. Davey is. To offset that, President Roosevelt sent word to certain key men in congress that if the social security law is interfering with social security benefits in Ohio it should be amended. Mr. Roosevelt is an elective official.

But now the social security board says it won't be party to any scheme to pay Ohio unemployment insurance benefits ahead of time, because it just simply can't be done without making an administrative mess. Members of the board are appointed; they can afford to be objective.

Whereupon, Charles Leasure, chairman of Ohio unemployment commission, also appointed, says he will go ahead anyway and do for Gov. Davey what the social security board says can't be done.

Either Mr. Leasure is the exception to prove appointed officials are less than elected officials, or he is planning to run for election some time in the not distant future.

CONGRESS—IS IT FATE?

Inside guessing in Washington is that when congress has floundered a few more months, after the beginning of the regular session, President Roosevelt will take to the air and throw himself another forward pass for an executive domination touchdown.

The assumption is that congress is incapable of doing anything else but floundering, and that if the game is going to be saved for dear old U. S. A. Mr. Roosevelt is going to have to save it with razzle-dazzle.

This is interesting. Congressmen must love to read about what is going to happen to them—their Fate. A few of them capable of thinking beyond tomorrow's groceries may even understand that if it does happen there won't be much point any more to paying them $10,000 a year and perquisites for a job they could do at home by telegraph, between legal clients.

Some of them must have considered the possibility of blowing up the assumption that congress is on its way to extinction.

First, they would have to remember that a coat tail is a good thing to hang on to only so long as it is going some place. Next, they would have to remember that in the opinion of various cool observers the only way representative government can save itself is to save itself—that it's not worth preserving unless it works. Congress can make it work, or let it go by default.

If, somehow, between the end of the present abortive special session and the beginning of the regular session in January, six out of every 10 congressmen were to subscribe to these two simple thoughts 100 percent, there wouldn't be many occasions to worry about democracy in the United States in 1938.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, December 24

Events and developments of powerful effect on the life, its progress and prosperity, are forecast from the paramount influence of the major planets, both by lunar direction and mutual aspect. Enlarged opportunities for expansion and productivity, increased values and finances and enhanced power and popularity combine to make this a day of success.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of great and powerful influences and activities that may be marshalled to achieve a decisive advance upon the goal of very high ambitions. Definite initiative and energy, co-operation of powerful interests and increased capital and possessions unite to promote personal power, prestige and popularity, as well as provoke rivalry, enmity and competition.

A child born on this day may be excellently endowed with all the talents and factors that go to make high goals in progress, prosperity, popularity and power, as well as personal gratifications. But these gifts also evoke bitter rivalries, competition and enmities, both open and secret, public and private.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—They are trying to get Lisle Bell, the book reviewer, to write the history of the automobile he bought in California in 1928 of a make now out of existence and whose vicissitudes should have long ago consigned it to the junk pile. Everything has happened to it.

But without ever going to the repair shop, it rolls merrily on. It has crossed the continent twice, emerged cock-a-hoop through two dust storms and remained for 48 hours in the leavings of an Ohio Valley flood, unhurt. Yet recently Bell complained the upkeep was beginning to tell.

Some boys swiped the radiator cap and the replacement cost 48 cents. The clerk inquired: "Don't you want an ornament?" Bell replied grimly: "When I want an ornament I'll have my wife sit out there."

The clerk wandered off, shaking what was left of his head. The other week the car went to the painter. Bell asked the painter if he didn't want a deposit and received the flattering reply: "No, I'll have the car." The owner didn't know how to take that, in view of the fact the refurbishing cost all of $15. Anyway Old Faithful is now taking the turns in Canada and going strong.

Outside of browsing through a brilliantly lit five and ten, I find nothing more fun in the way of shopping adventure than a snoop through the high-priced luxury establishments—such as Cartier's on the avenue. Especially in the men's section. Fountain pens with gold tops, gold pencils with folding magnifying glass and gold bill clips from $25 up to several hundred. And wrist watches set in gold, black enamel, shell lacquer and platinum all the way up to $1,000. Cigaret cases seem man's best bet in letting himself go—some of platinum and gold woven with initials encrusted in rare gems, would keep an average family off relief for four or five years.

Most men have something in the way of personal adornment with which they are loath to part. The suspenderless Heywood Brown has a frayed belt that is something in the way of an antique. John Drew insisted on detachable cuffs long after they were hooted by the comic papers. George M. Cohan's green dressing robe has been to the cleaners too many times to remember. And Irvin Cobb's full dress suit would have been perfectly dandy at the Lincoln inaugural ball. Even the pushed-up Dwight Fiske is said to wear a red flannel dickey as a protection for chest colds.

My sartorial cling is for a pair of house slippers, scuffed and run over, that have been salvaged twice just in the nick of time from the ash can. Once in a regenerating moment I decided to discard them and go straight. From famed Costa's on the rue St. Honore I had a pair of mauve-toned Russian house boots with flaring cavalier tops fashioned. I promised when they were broken in, the ancient house slippers would go. But H. T. Webster came to call, took one look at the new boots and had the neighbors rapping on the radiator pipes for less noise—he grew that hysterical. I made one more heroic effort and tried them out on a train journey, but the heat or something swelled my feet so I had to call a porter to get them off. He seemed to think they were funny, too.

A number in New York pay from $40 to $90 for custom made shoes. One family of bootmakers—the Moores—extends back through three generations. Stanford White was the most generous patron in his day of hand made shoes, ordering a dozen at a crack. Dancers, such as Clifton Webb, Paul Draper, Ray Bolger and such, buy the best of carefully made shoes, for their livelihood depends solely on keeping their feet in perfect condition. Damon Runyon is the best customer among the laymen.

Thingumbobs: Sam Leibowitz, noted criminal lawyer, is a shark at anagrams . . . Floyd Gibbons does not own a single bond or share of stock . . . Ina Claire prefers the corner hamburger stand after the play . . . Major Bowes' new country home will have twenty concealed radios . . . Harry Evans takes one night out a month to dance until dawn, just for the exercise.

Modern 50-50: Ted Saucier knows a fellow who never clashes with his wife. She goes her way and so does he.

HEAD NOISES

IF YOU should ask your doctor what he considers the most common complaints encountered in his practice, I am sure he would include "head noises" in his list. This is a common affliction of middle age. Occasionally it may occur in young persons who suffer from some infection or other disorder of the ear. But it is most prevalent in individuals beyond middle age.

Dr. Copeland

The doctor calls this condition "tinnitus." It is a peculiar sensation, described in various ways by different sufferers. As a rule, it is a continuous noise, often compared to the ringing of bells, the rushing of a stream, the hissing of steam, the rolling of the ocean, or to some musical tone or sound.

Different Forms

There are mild and severe forms of this disorder. The annoyance may be so marked as actually to prevent sleep and rest. Some of the afflicted are more fortunate in having it only in a mild form.

Tinnitus is not something new. It has been known to afflict mankind for centuries. The ancients believed that these noises were caused by evil spirits imprisoned within the skull. They resorted to many crude devices in the hope of encouraging the devils or evil spirits to escape.

There are many causes of tinnitus. It may be the result of some deformity, irritation or inflammation of the ear, or of the passage-way into the ear, the eustachian tube. Enlarged or diseased tonsils or adenoids may be the cause. Dried or impacted wax, polyps, tumors or foreign bodies in the ear canal are possible causes that must not be overlooked.

Common Cause

Perhaps the most common cause of head noises is some constitutional disorder. High blood pressure, hardening of the blood vessels, auto-intoxication, faulty diet, over-exertion and fatigue are common factors associated with annoying and ringing sounds in the ears.

It will be seen that relief is only possible when a complete examination is made. This must include careful inspection of the nose, throat and ears, as well as a general physical examination.

Unfortunately, many sufferers from this condition fail to submit to this simple and accurate procedure. Instead, they resort to the use of patent medicines. This method of attempted cure is almost as crude as methods resorted to by the ancients.

Answers to Health Queries

A. K. Q.—What should a girl of 23 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weigh? How can I gain weight?

A.—Considering your height and age you should weigh approximately 126 pounds as determined by examination of a number of people. Make every effort to improve your general health. Eat a well-balanced, nutritious diet. For further particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

George Arliss is starred in the Gaumont British film, "Dr. Syn," which shows tonight and Friday at the State on a double bill.

"Dr. Syn" tells the tale of the notorious Captain Clegg, who escapes the gallows to settle down in a small village near the Kentish marshes. He is genuinely repentant of his past, and sincere as the parson of the village. But the extreme poverty of the villagers and the harsh, excise laws drives them to smuggling, and "Dr. Syn," their parson, becomes also their leader in bringing in contraband.

Haunted by Past

But the shadow of his past haunts him when the revenue men arrive, bringing with them a strange and tongueless half-breed. He was one of Captain Clegg's men, cruelly punished for treachery, and now he has sworn vengeance. And he suspects the real identity of Dr. Syn.

HOPES WANING ON RELIEF PLAN

appropriate $491,000 which the state relief commission had in its treasury when the relief act expired last April 15.

The other, appropriating to relief an estimated $2,000,000 in surplus individual classified property taxes, must go back to the house for concurrence in minor amendments.

Although the senate finance committee approved a bill carrying $40,000 to finance an investigation of alleged "legalized graft" in state departments, senate leaders held action on it in abeyance to permit relief to take precedence. The bill also contains $20,000 for Atty. Gen.
Herbert S. Duffy's investigation of the state parole system.

Davey "Not Concerned"
Governor Davey declared he was "not the least bit concerned" about the proposed departmental investigation, for which a seven-member committee has been appointed and an attorney hired.

The governor commended the house for "some definite legislative achievements to their everlasting credit," but said "it is hard for anyone to understand the senate, especially its tricky, unreliable and unmoral presiding officer."

He said those who follow the leadership of Lieutenant Governor Yoder "seem willing to make a political football out of relief and all other state problems," and added:

"Most of the people of Ohio would be better satisfied if they settled down to work and did their duty now."

The house approved and sent to the senate a bill which state tax officials said would increase the annual yield of the sales tax $4-000,000 by removing the privileges of out-of-state purchasers to claim exemption.

It sent to the governor a bill which would validate action of some Ohio river counties in transferring funds for emergency flood purposes last spring.

SEEK BODY OF FLYING SANTA

Christmas Party Stunt Ends In Tragedy for Parachute Jumper

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Army planes and police boats searched Boston harbor today for the body of U. S. Army Corporal Harold J. Kraner, 35, former Ohioan, whose parachute descent as a flying Santa Claus turned to tragedy last night over Boston's Oceanside airport when a freshening wind blew him into the water.

Veteran of more than 100 successful jumps within eight years, Kraner plunged to his death while his wife and their 18-month-old son looked on in the midst of a group of Army wives and children to whose Christmas party he was making his annual contribution. He formerly lived in Pickerington, O.

Investigations were launched by the Federal Bureau of Air Commerce, airport officials, the Army and Boston police.

Kraner bailed out over the airport administration building at 1,500 feet, from a plane piloted by Captain Richard E. Cobb. Carried seaward by the wind, Kraner side-slipped his chute desperately, but only a few spectators realized he was in danger.

The Christmas party's gayety changed to horror when Cobb released flares, first indication the jumper had landed in the water.

Two enlisted men of the airport detachment, Richard Miller and Earl Jordan, commandeered a skiff at the water's edge, but in their feverish haste the craft capsized and they were almost drowned before a coast guard crew pulled them from the water.

Meanwhile, a police cruiser dashing across the airfield with flares and floodlights for the search collided with an Army plane taxiing to a landing.

The plane's propeller sliced through the car roof, gashed the face of Sergeant Edward J. Seibold, police ballistics expert, fractured his jaw and knocked out three teeth.

Three Army planes, a coast guard cutter and a police boat joined the search, but when they reached the scene their flares showed only black water.

A policeman later reported sighting the body off an Oceanside park; but boats found nothing there and the search was halted until daylight.

Wellsville Tap Dancer Sues Motorist; Letonia Firm Named In Second Suit

LISBON, Dec. 23.—A tap dancer who claimed injuries resulting from a traffic accident prevented her from enjoying her art, filed one of two suits totaling $32,500 in common pleas court Tuesday.

The dancer, Fay Cunningham of Wellsville, is suing James Sabbatta, R. D. 1, Wellsville, for $7,500 charging him with injuring her Sept. 7, 1937, as she was crossing a Wellsville street.

The plaintiff brought the action through her father, James Cunningham, as she is a minor. The petition states she was crossing Main street at the intersection of Pine alley when she was struck by the defendant's car.

Miss Cunningham says she was thrown to the street, sustaining permanent injuries to her left ankle. These she asserts are of such a nature she will never be able to tap dance again.

The second suit was filed by Jerome Eagleton, Jr., of Letonia, asking $25,000 damages from Berg's Bretzels, Inc., a Letonia concern. The plaintiff asserts he was injured Aug. 20, 1937, while riding on a truck owned by the defendant company and operated by Charles D. Cripps, an employee of the company.

Eagleton says he frequently assisted the driver in delivering and unloading and that Cripps paid him for this work. The accident occurred on Route 30 between Lisbon and Kensington when the truck left the road at a sharp curve and turned over.

Injuries listed include a permanent impairment in the vision of the right eye and limited use of the left hand as a result of the mishap. Cripps is charged with driving at an excessive speed and with defective headlights.

Stranded Lisbon Motorist Injured
When Arthur Sloss, 34, of Lisbon, a state highway department employee, attempted to flag down another automobile on Route 62, two miles west of Westville, at 11:30 p. m. Wednesday, he was hit by the car. His own machine had broken down and he was seeking assistance.

Sloss suffered a brain concussion and was removed to the Central Clinic. His condition is fair.

Charles F. Guy of 170 Water st., Salem, driver of the car which struck Sloss, said he was unable to avoid hitting Sloss due to a machine coming in the opposite direction.

HONOLULU, Dec. 23.—Capt. Edwin C. Musick, veteran aerial explorer of the Pacific, pioneers another new commercial route over that vast ocean today—the Samoan clipper service to Auckland, New Zealand.

He is scheduled to take off at dawn (11:30 a. m. EST.) on an epochal round trip flight designed to add 4,000 miles to American commercial lanes over the Pacific. He is scheduled to arrive Christmas.

Ideal flying conditions were in prospect all along the way.

The flying boat, on its return hop from Auckland Dec. 29, will inaugurate bi-weekly commercial air service of Pan American Airways from Australia to the United States. Mail and express taken aboard at Auckland will be transferred at Honolulu to California-bound clippers of the United States-Philippines route.

First Stop
Kingman reef, 1,060 miles south of here, will be the clipper's first stop. The second stop will be 1,521 miles farther along, at Pago Pago, American Samoa. Auckland lies 1,763 miles beyond Pago Pago.

The Samoan clipper formerly was the Hongkong-Manila route, in use on the Hongkong-Manila route.

Aboard it with Capt. Musick, who flew the first clipper from Alameda, Calif., to Manila is E. L. Yuravich, chief inspector of foreign airlines for the U. S. department of commerce.

The clipper will carry only mail and express until super clippers under construction by Boeing are ready for passenger service.

KILLING LINKED TO MARINO CASE

Daniel Visnich, 28, of Steubenville Executed In Gangland Fashion; Pal Escapes

STEUBENVILLE, Dec. 23.—Authorities sought connection today, if any, between the gangland execution of Daniel Visnich, 28, of Steubenville, and that of Roy (Happy) Marino of Youngstown three months ago.

Four or five shots from a sawed-off shotgun, fired from a waiting automobile, killed Visnich today as he left a stag party with Daniel Rackinac, 26.

Rackinac, uninjured, was held under heavy guard in the Jefferson county jail as a material witness. He was questioned and released after Marino's body was found near a highway at Rogers village.

"Rackinac claims he tripped on a manhole cover and fell to the ground just as the first shot was fired," Prosecutor Hugo Alexander said. "The assassins apparently thought he was dead."

The prosecutor said he also was investigating the "slight possibility" of a link between today's slayings and that of Mike Russell, known to police as a numbers lottery operator, who was shot down Aug. 25 in front of his Wheeling, W. Va., home.

Visnich had no police record. Rackinac was convicted this year of assault and battery.

Alexander said he would talk with Youngstown police about the Marino case.

"I know they intended to get me, too," Rackinac told officials, refusing, however, to amplify the statement.

GREEN SAYS CIO BLOCKED PARLEY

Claims Lewis Dictatorship Halted Labor Peace Moves

COSHOCOTON, Dec. 23.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, back among home townspeople today for his annual Christmas holiday visit, blamed John L. Lewis' "dictatorship" over the Committee for Industrial Organization for failure of peace conferences between the two groups.

At the same time the AFL leader, reviewing his years of effort in the labor movement hinted that his duties of office might be bearing a bit heavily on him. He said: "I do not know how long I will continue. I've put a hard year on this job for the past several years that I will be able to appreciate, when I may do so, a return to the peaceful home life of Coshocton."

Won't Surrender
But Green, charter member for half a century of Morgan Run local of Lewis' United Mine Workers, offered no quarter when mentioning the CIO-AFL feud. Speaking before several hundred fellow townsmen at a banquet last night, he said: "The word surrender is not in the vocabulary of the American Federation of Labor. Through much of its life, it has been submitted to severe tests. We will meet those tests unflinchingly."

Green's local has been inactive for years. It never has acted on a national executive committee order for his expulsion which was issued when labor's internecine warfare reached its height.

Speaking of recent conferences in Washington, D. C., when CIO and AFL groups sought to make a peace pact, Green said: "I want to tell you a secret. A committee representing these two groups agreed upon a plan we proposed to the 12 (members of the committee)."

"That was because the dictator was absent somewhere. When they (the groups) returned in the afternoon, the dictator had aroused himself and he said: 'Thumbs down. Veto.'"

"The committee then said, sorry we can't accept that plan and we replied: 'Then we're done.'"

Cites Issue
Green declared the issue between the two labor groups was not one of class unionism and industrial unionism but one of Lewis attempting to realize "a personal ambition."

"Lewis in attempting to establish an independent political party is practically ruining the American labor movement," he asserted.

"When the time comes that he will yell for a nominee, he will say: 'I am the man.'"

The AFL leader said there were communists on the CIO payroll adding: "I don't know what will become of them, if ever an agreement is reached. Communists can not come into the AFL. They (the CIO) can have them if they want them. We'll never have them in the American Federation of Labor."

The banquet at which Green spoke was sponsored by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Central Trades and Labor council.

Due to the illness of members of the Columbiana Music club, who had part in the program scheduled Wednesday night at the Methodist church, the event was cancelled.

Reporter Goes to Bow-Wows After Digging Up List of Doggy Names

"Rover", "Fido" Old Fashioned; "Pal", "Mitzi" Popular; Salem Chow Called "Honeymoon"

LISBON, Dec. 23.—If you are going to give or receive a dog for Christmas you may be guided in your choice of a name by the records in County Auditor John Irwin's office.

T. A. Eckstein of Salem, who is in charge of the sale of dog licenses, says the majority of Columbiana county dog owners prefer "Pal" for a name. Eckstein speaks with authority as his records carry the names of all dogs to whose owners licenses are issued.

"Mitzi" Popular
"Girl" canines are christened "Mitzi" more frequently in this district than otherwise. In fact "Mitzi" rates just below "Pal" in popular acclaim. It seems to be applied to all breeds and is by no means limited to Pomeranians and other more elegant household pets.

An East Liverpool resident calls his dog "Roosevelt" and has a Republican explanation for his selection. The owner claims he selected the name because he never knows what the dog will do next.

The name of the heroine in a very popular historical novel belongs to a Red Irish setter owned by a Lisbon family. The dog known to its intimates as Scarlett O'Hara. Red hair and Irish background account for the choice.

Wellsville owners of a lively ratter delved into American history in naming their pet. Possibly because the animal demands "liberty or else," he has been tagged "Patrick Henry." Or perhaps his stentorian barks bear some resemblance to the commanding tones of the great statesman.

Other Favorites
Tobias, Topsy, Skippie, Trixie, Nero and Nifty. A surprisingly large number are names generally owned by their two-footed admirers, Jack, George, Sammie and Frances. One pet bears the name of the county dog warden—Butch.

Hardly anybody calls their pet Rover or Fido these days, Eckstein states. "Sport" also is in a decline—why, nobody knows. "Trixie" is holding up very well, however, and "Spot" is doing as well as can be expected.

But none of the more old-fashioned names has quite the romantic aspects of a Salem chow. Its name is "Honeymoon."

OHIO MONOPOLY ON LIQUOR HIT
Attack Constitutionality Of State-Controlled Business

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—A suit directly attacking constitutionality of the state liquor monopoly will be heard by the Ohio supreme court sometime in February or March, it was indicated today.

The court agreed yesterday to hear the suit on its merits, marking the first time that constitutionality of the pro-prohibition liquor control system has been reviewed by the state's highest court. Several common pleas courts have upheld the legality of the Ohio liquor law and at least two have ruled against the state.

The supreme court action was brought by Eli G. Frankenstein of Cincinnati, who lost in the lower courts a fight to escape paying assessments imposed by the liquor board on liquor imported into Ohio.

Frankenstein, while offering to pay a $1 gallonage tax on liquor purchased in Kentucky for his personal use, protested a charge equal to 30 per cent of the invoice price of the liquor and a 15 per cent handling fee.

Unlawful Power
His counsel termed the taxing power unlawful and contended that establishment of a monopoly in a private enterprise created a communistic state in Ohio.

A three-judge federal court now is considering whether to hear another suit challenging validity of the Ohio liquor law and the second district court of appeals recently affirmed in the Frankenstein case validity of the monopoly.

The appellate court ruled that the legislature conferred corporate powers on the liquor board, permitting it to make assessments.

The high court also declined to hear the appeal of Angeline Nezzick of Mansfield, who contended she was improperly prosecuted under a statute which described the restaurant where she sold liquor as a saloon. She was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor by permitting a 16-year-old boy to frequent the restaurant.

BASKETBALL COACHES DISPUTE OVER NEW RULES

STAR ALABAMA LINEMAN HURT DURING DRILL

Leroy Monsky, All-American Guard, Suffers Cut Over Eye

(By Associated Press) The football party line buzzed from bowl to bowl today with bits of gossip that kept the second semester activities of a dozen football teams in the spotlight.

Chief news of the day was the injury to Leroy Monsky, All-American guard for Alabama's Crimson Tide, Monsky, captain of the Bama team, collided with Lou Bostick in signal drill and suffered a deep cut over the eye yesterday at San Antonio, Tex.

Coach Frank Thomas said the injury would not keep his star lineman out of the Rose Bowl game with California, New Year's day. Meanwhile some of the leading developments of the other teams were:

Rose Bowl—California's Bears went through a vigorous scrimmage which put ends Willard Delman and Henry Sparks on the sidelines with leg injuries.

Sugar Bowl—Louisiana State's third stringers took a beating as the Tigers went on the offense in a long drill yesterday.

Coach Buck Shaw of Santa Clara named a tentative lineup for the game before dismissing the squad for a holiday until Sunday night when the Broncos will leave for New Orleans.

In the Santa Clara backfield were Pavelko at quarter, Roche and Gilbert at halfback and Fisher at fullback. Cotton Bowl—Rice, forced indoors by rain at Houston in preparation for the Dallas engagement with Colorado, is due to scrimmage twice today.

Colorado will have Christmas day afternoon off but that's all. Rex Tomlinson, understudy for Whizzer White, has recovered from a shoulder injury and will be able to play.

Sun Bowl—Texas Tech, which meets West Virginia in this classic at El Paso, has a good time with the home folks for a few days, by Coach Pete Cawthon, yesterday. Tech will start work again Monday but Cawthon will not bear down. He fears too much work will make the eleven stale.

Orange Bowl—Michigan State, camped at Gainesville, Fla., preparing for the tilt with Auburn at Miami, got down to hard work yesterday and expects plenty more.

East-West—Coaches Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota named two backfields for the All-East eleven after a stiff session at Berkeley, where the squad is preparing for the game with the All-West team at San Francisco, in the first round basketball game.

BOWLING

Announcement of the award is made in the January issue of the magazine "Strength and Health," in which Writer Robert L. Jones pays tribute to Robusch for his splendid record as an athlete and his fine work in the field of physical education.

weighed 160 pounds at his height of 6 feet 1 1/2 inches. Approximately 15 years of jumping, pole vaulting and track work with exercises to promote his proficiency in these sports left him still very slender to say the least. The mystery man of high jumping and pole vaulting.

Increases Record
"After two years of barbell training he increased his weight to 170 pounds and his record in the pole vault to 13 feet, 1/2 inch. He trained at pole vaulting three times a week for just one month prior to making this record. That is twelve practice periods in all.

"Without training once for the high jump, he cleared 6 feet, 2 inches. The added weight he had gained through barbell training gave him more strength in arms, legs, stomach and back which enabled him to jump and vault better.

"After no vaulting or jumping for three full years, recently he tried himself out on his 36th birthday and pole vaulted 11 feet, 6 inches.

"Bill trains the York way (barbell and dumbbell training) three times a week. He likes lifting and his pet exercise is the two hands snatch. He doesn't do much squatting or dead lifting though he has lifted 400 pounds from the floor with one arm. He's done a two-arm dead lift with 430 pounds.

Best Lifts
"His best official lifts are 175 press, 200 snatch, 265 clean and jerk—640" total. His best in training are 180-210 and 270, 665. His present bodyweight is 186 and he has developed an attractive physique at this weight. His measurements before and after are:

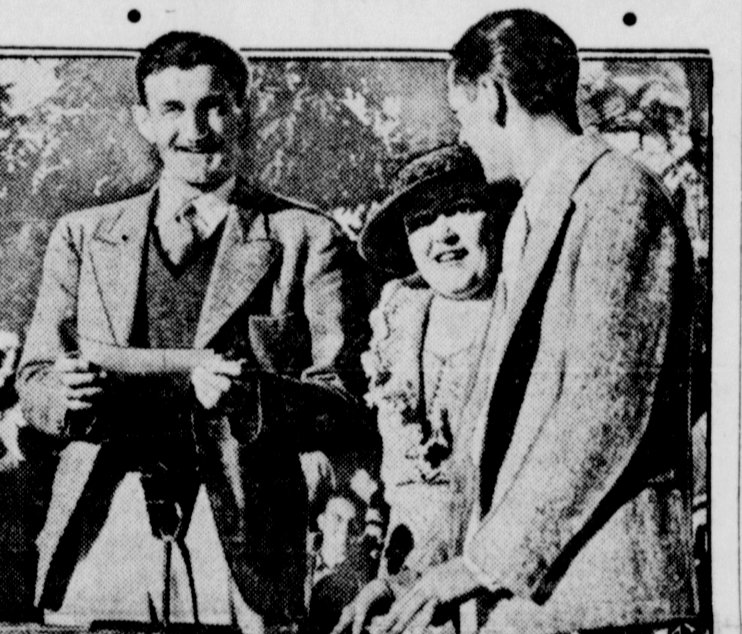

Before After
Chest 38 43
Arm 14 15 1/2
Calf 14 1/2 15 1/2
Waist 32 32

"He has broad jumped 22 feet, 5 inches and put the 16-pound shot at his light bodyweight 36 feet."

Although born in Beloit, Robusch is a graduate of Salem High school and was the first of a line of crack Salem pole vaulters which includes Chris Roessler, Lowell Allen, Keith Roessler and Ed Beck.

After completing high school work, Robusch attended the University of Pittsburgh and gained fame as one of the leading pole vaulters and high jumpers in the nation.

Good As Freshman

While a freshman at Pitt, Robusch vaulted 12 feet, 10 1/2 inches. At this time, vaulters who could top 13 feet were considered world beaters.

Robusch came to Salem to make his home in 1931 after he had spent several years as one of the track coaches at Pitt. He continued his pole vaulting after taking up residence here, competing frequently in A. A. U. meets, which are open to all amateur athletes.

Several years ago, Robusch organized the Salem Weight Lifting Club and became its supervisor. Members of the club train at the Memorial building in a room especially provided for them by Joe Kelley, manager.

The club, under Robusch's guidance, has carried off top honors in several district and state weight lifting meets and has gone a long way in promoting physical education.

Developed Julian
One of Robusch's outstanding products is Frank (Toar) Julian, who is now in the professional wrestling game and to date has not been defeated.

Robusch began training Julian when the latter was still in high school and by constant instruction and encouragement developed him into one of Ohio's leading weight lifters.

Julian, at the age of 20, is one of the strength world's super men. He weighs 240 pounds, has a 55 inch chest, 20 inch arms and is 5 feet, 11 inches in height.

Before entering the wrestling business, Julian held the Ohio heavyweight title for the military press and was heavyweight champion of the Allegheny Mountain association in weight lifting.

Robusch is employed by the Mullins Manufacturing Co. as an assistant foreman and makes his home at 417 East Third st.

TENTH PENNANT GOAL FOR MACK

Veteran Baseball Pilot Observes 75th Birthday Anniversary

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—Conlie Mack, veteran baseball leader, celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary today by "getting plans ready for next season" when he hopes to win his tenth American league pennant.

There was no birthday cake, for Mack is on a diet as a result of an indigestion since last August. But he has no idea of stepping down as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"My principal thought now," he said, "is getting plans ready for next season. When I concentrate on baseball matters, I forget that I have been ill."

Mack, born at East Brookfield, Mass., as Cornelius McGillicuddy, is anxious to get back into baseball atmosphere.

He will be starting his 55th year in the game when he takes the A's to Lake Charles, La., next spring. Looking over his past successes and drawing from them inspiration for the efforts he hopes will carry his team to the top again, the graying manager found much to be thankful for.

"Baseball improved all along the line last season in point of interest and attendance," he said, "and I look for further improvement next season."

Oldest manager in the big leagues, Mack holds the record for continuous service as a manager. Since he took the helm of the A's in 1901, his teams have won nine league pennants and five World series.

Playoff For Title May Be Held In Sunny South In '38

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—There is a chance, President Joe F. Carr of the National Professional Football league said today, that the loop's 1938 playoff game will be staged at Miami, Fla., instead of on some frozen northern gridiron.

Carr, who "doubles in brass" as promotional director of baseball's minor leagues when not engineering the professional grid, said he had received an offer "tempting in the extreme" to shift the annual classic between the eastern and western division champions to the southland.

Damon Runyon, sports writer, news columnist and author, made the offer on behalf of "wealthy sports interests in Miami," Carr said.

The league prexy said the verdict as to whether the game would be moved was up to the league's directors, and that the decision would be made at the annual meeting to be held in February, probably in New York or Philadelphia.

"The big question is whether the division winners would care to take the game away from their home towns, where the fans had supported the teams all fall," Carr said.

"Those behind the venture at Miami stated that they would like to make it the outstanding sports spectacle of the country. They are very anxious to get the playoff game as an annual sports feature."

Carr said there was an outside possibility that the playoff might be placed on a "two-out-of-three" basis, and that if such a plan materialized Miami might get one of the contests.

Should the Florida city get the playoff, the country's two winter "garden spots" would hold a monopoly on the late-season football classics, California holding the collegiate spotlight with the annual "Rose Bowl" fixture between the collegiate "giants" and Florida getting the top-notch attraction of the up-and-coming professional game.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Michigan students home for the holidays say "Hurry Up" Yost's retirement as director of athletics will be announced soon. Miss Frost, who plays center for the Woodstock (Vt.) Cagerettes, got warmed up sufficiently the other night to score 41 of her team's 42 points against Windsor High.

Hope these belated congratulations catch up with George Weiss, superintendent of the Yankee farm chain, now halfway to the coast with his bride. Kicking situation at Marquette isn't worrying Coach Paddy Driscoll. He has a pair of Sophomores named Albert Boots and Francis Van Hoof, both hailing from Little Chute, Wis.

"They don't call Lou Gehrig 'Iron Man' for nothing. He won't wear an overcoat no matter how low the mercury goes. Mrs. G. finally made him buy a light topcoat and Lou carries it around on his arm. Charlie Vackner, former Brooklyn newspaper man and Maurie Maxman, Broadway press agent, have taken over the boxing magazine "Bang" and will put out their first issue Jan. 3.

One of our top flight skaters told a Canadian newspaper Sonja Heine's skating is "too stiff and formal" and hasn't enough lift and swing, to which we say "hawi".

The college getting Bill De Correvont, the Chicago schoolboy sensation, almost make the two big tackles who cleared the way for Bill's touchdown gallops. Birth-day greetings to Connie Mack, 75 today and still going strong.

Coach Red Dawson of Tulane must be looking for a bloody nose. Next year his Greenies take on Alabama, Louisiana State, Rice, Auburn and North Carolina. Four of the five play in Bowl games New Year's day. Three of them were conference champions this year.

Detroit's flashy young half-back sensation, Harry Groh, has just about decided on the U. of Detroit, which accounts for all that gloom at South Bend.

LONDON—After going to his bank in Trowbridge, G. Williams, a poultry farmer set his dog to guard the money in his car. When he returned he found the dog had opened the envelope and was just eating the last fragments of a £5 note.

Joining him in apprehension for the players, unless a school is blessed with plenty of reserve material, were: George Keogan, Notre Dame; Bowser Chest, one of the south's leading officials; Dr. F. C. Allen, Kansas; Leonard Sachs, Loyola (Chicago); Chick Davies, Duquesne; Nick Kearns, Big Ten official; Roy Mundorff, Georgia Tech; Herb Dana, west coast official; Jack Friel, Washington State; Dr. Herbert Rutherford, Pacific coast referee; Claude McGrath, Gonzaga; and Dave Walsh, eastern official.

"It would require at least 10 to 15 men to complete a game and not injure the players physically," declared Kearns. "In a recent game two players, who under the old rules never wanted to hear the final gun, said: 'When in the hell is this game going to be over?'"

POLLY AND HER PALS

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XXXV

When Clyde came off the set at the conclusion of the scene and the director expressed himself as satisfied, Loring walked out of the great Stage Four building with an arm thrown over Clyde's shoulder, chatting amiably about various things of no particular importance. The three made their way to the white stucco bungalow which had become Loring's studio headquarters upon his recent elevation to the full honors and prerogatives of stardom.

The bungalow had originally been built for the use of a famous director, now no more on the N. P. N. It was of Spanish design, with red-tiled roof and deeply recessed windows and it had a small patio shaded by tall banana palms and gently stirring mimosa. Beside the actor's dressing room and bath, there was a lounge with a wide fireplace and even a kitchenette where meals could be prepared whenever it might please Loring to be served there.

Loring walked to a tall Spanish cabinet and flung its carved doors wide. "What'll you have?" he asked and proceeded to pour the drinks his guests mentioned by way of preference. Lifting his own glass he smiled: "Skool," and downed his gin straight, topping off with a bite of lemon, as navy pilots often do—a trick he had acquired in his pre-studio wanderings.

Then he turned to Clyde who had sunk into a deep chair of crimson morocco and was staring moodily at the glass he held, without as much as a sip of its contents. "What's on your mind, Old Timer?" Loring asked. "You look lower than a heel."

"That's not half as low as I feel," Clyde replied darkly. "I'm nothing but a yalla houn' dawg. Why if any other man had said what I did to Lucy Lee, I'd shoot him down like the dirty pup he was!"

"Bad as all that?"

"Couldn't be worse. I've lost the only girl I ever cared anything about and through my own damn foolishness."

Loring turned to Don Ames who was refilling his glass at the Spanish cabinet. "You know, we used to play a sort of game, there on the island," he remarked casually, "when time hung heavy on our hands. Sometimes we'd get tired of swimming and hunting abalones and what have you for our next meal. At first of course we expected any day some fishing boat would make the island, but after a couple of weeks we realized it was off the beaten track and we might be there for months before any craft showed up. So we began to keep a pretty regular lookout from a certain rocky point, the highest on the island."

"Are you telling me," the press agent chorled, "after the way I worked up that part of the story? Two modern Robinson Crusoes, minus the parrot and man Friday, standing on that craggy peak in the lonely Pacific, scanning the far horizon for a sail . . . day after weary day . . . week after endless week?"

"Well, we didn't do so much standing on a craggy peak as lying there on the warm rocks like a couple of sleepy old turtles, too, but when we felt like really exerting ourselves we played a game, as I say. Called 'druthers'—I used to play it when I was a kid."

"I know. What would you 'druther do most in the world, huh?" Ames replied. "If you had your choice."

"Ye, that's it. I'd talk about the places I want to see before I cash in my checks. Far off, queer places in the heart of Africa or up in the mountains of Tibet or up in the jungles of South America. I used to have on about how when I got my stake, I was going to buy me an old tub and go drifting around the world—down to the South Seas and across on the other side of the globe, not giving a tinker's dam for anything or anybody and not caring a whoop in hell whether it's yesterday, today or tomorrow . . . Absolutely!"

"Hear, hear," Ames cried, waving his glass.

"That was my 'druthers,'" Loring went on, "but Clyde, here, would never get steamed up over any of that adventure stuff. Not him."

"No?" Ames asked the required question, aware that there was some purpose behind the actor's seemingly idle chatter.

"Not so you could notice it. His one idea was to marry Lucy Lee if he ever got the chance, settle down in Carterton and build up the finest service-station business in the state. Maybe have a chain of them. All he needed was the girl and a little capital to put him on top of the world. And I offered to lend him the capital. All he had to do was to win Lucy Lee when he got back and I told him he was seventeen kinds of a damn fool if he let any other guy beat his time. Wasn't I right?"

Both men glanced at Clyde but he made no sign of having heard. The glass in his hand remained untouched and he was still sunk in depths of gloom and self accusation.

"I used to tell him he didn't know his luck. Instead of jazzing around, always chasing rainbows and never finding them, he had it all figured out exactly what would make him happy. Most of us never get wise until it's too late and we've got ourselves all jammed up with things we can't get out of."

"Ain't it the truth," the other solemnly agreed.

"Most of the men in the world are married to the wrong woman or working in some business they hate, eating their fool hearts out for what they haven't got and never will have. A lot of this success yep is the bunk, anyway. We break our necks to get it—and when we have it what does it amount to? Mostly just a lot of worry for fear we're going to lose it or jealousy because some other bird has grabbed off more than we have."

"You said a jawful, Big Boy. The majority of us haven't got the guts to know what we really want and go after it." Ames was thinking his own thoughts as he let Loring ramble on.

"When I got what I wanted, did I have sense enough to hang on to it?" Evidently Clyde had been listening after all. "Lucy Lee and I had planned to slip over to Yuma next week and get married. We decided just last night. In another few days she would have been my wife." He rose, putting down the still untasted drink. "But what's the use talking?" His mouth was set in new grim lines. "I never was good enough for Lucy Lee, anyway. And I've sure proved it. If I've smashed myself up, that's just my hard luck."

"So you're going to break her heart, too, are you?" Loring asked casually. "That's a swell idea. Let the little woman cry her eyes out for you, huh, instead of admitting what a fall guy you were, last night?"

"That's easy enough to say, Bruce," Clyde replied, "but you don't know her like I do. The Carters are mighty proud and they've got a right to be. They come of one of the finest families in Louisiana, don't forget. I said things to Lucy Lee no girl like her would forgive."

"Sez you! Listen, boy. All women are the same when they're in love. The easiest thing they do is forgive us, no matter what we've done or how little we deserve to be forgiven. Isn't that right, Ames?"

"I'll say so. And who ought to know it better than you and me, brother?"

"I'll bet my best polo pony against a spavined mule that if you were to be there at Rosemead when she arrives, Lucy Lee would be so glad to see you there wouldn't be anything to do but the clinch for the final fadeout," Loring exclaimed.

Clyde looked at him with a faint gleam of hope. "Honestly, Bruce, do you think so?"

"And how!"

"My money says so, too," Ames agreed. "You're the absolute tops with Lucy Lee, Clyde, though God only knows why," he added with a grimace. "You should have seen her face when that train pulled out this morning," he went on more seriously. "Her little heart was broken, I'm telling you, even though she had made up her mind to go. Proud, yes—and still plenty mad at you, for which no one could blame her. But I think Bruce is right. Why don't you give her and yourself a break, Clyde?"

The momentarily hopeful light faded from Clyde's face, leaving it grim and gloomy as before. "I'm ashamed to see her and that's the God's truth," he acknowledged. "I—I reckon it would be better to send her a letter, don't you? Explaining things."

"Letter, nothing!" exclaimed Loring. "This is where you make a personal appearance, if I have to send you down there myself." He paused, as the thought took shape. "And say, what's the matter with that idea, fellers? Not bad, I'm telling you. Not bad at all. In fact, it's damn good!"

"You mean fly down in that new ship of yours?" asked Ames quickly, glancing from one man to the other. "Swell." Here was a grand publicity story in the making. His nostrils fairly twitched. "Why not? The picture is finished and we're footloose. Want to come along, Ames?"

"Sure. When do we start?"

"I'll leave that to you fellows. Figure it out so as to beat their train."
